Halle is home of one of the oldest universities in Germany, the Martin-Luther-University Halle-Wittenberg, as well as the castle Giebichenstein Kunsthochschule. In addition, the city is the seat of the National Academy of Sciences Leopoldina and the Federal Cultural Foundation, which have the tasks of the international representation of national science and German culture for the Federal Republic of Germany. Seven cultural icons are the trademarks of Halle, the hometown of Handel. They crown the birthplace of George Frideric Handel, making it a cultural stronghold filled with charm, art and design. Halle enjoys a central location in the middle of Germany, close to Leipzig-Halle Airport.

The Old Town has a history stretching back over 1,200 years and includes lovingly restored townhouse, historic churches, parks, colourful streets packed with taverns and many picturesque spots along the river Saale. The town is home to 240,000 residents, who live in the greenest city in Germany, two thirds of which are municipal parks and green spaces (according to the Germany City Report 2012).

August Hermann Francke, the Lutheran theologian and founder of the "Franckeschen Stiftungen" (Francke Foundations) was inspired by the fundamental ideas of the reformer Martin Luther. 300 years ago, he founded the former orphanage and school based on Luther's reformatory principles, which is still preserved today. The "Kulissenbibliothek" (baroque library) and the baroque "Kunst- und Naturalienkammer" (Art and Natural Curiosities Chamber) are unique attractions and a living educational cosmos until today.

With the 3,600-year-old Nebra Sky Disc, humanity's first concrete representation of the sky, Halle is home to a UNESCO treasure. The Sky Disc is included into the UNESCO's memory of the World. Giebichenstein Castle and Moritzburg Foundation Art Museum represent the oldest and the youngest castles along the river Saale. Handel's town is also home to the Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg with over 500 years of history and tradition, the German Federal Cultural Foundation and the Leopoldina – National Academy of Sciences.
